What are Cookies?

Cookies are small text files sent by the site to the terminal of the interested party (usually the browser), where they are stored and then transmitted to the site the next time the same user visits. A cookie cannot retrieve any other data from the user's hard drive or transmit computer viruses or acquire email addresses. Each cookie is unique to the user's web browser. Some of the functions of cookies may be delegated to other technologies. In this document, the term 'cookies' refers both to cookies as such and to all similar technologies. Cookies can be used to record information about your preferences, such as the pages you navigate to or the files you download from our site, or other similar actions you take while browsing our site.

First or third party cookies

Cookies may be first or third party cookies, where "first party" means cookies developed by the site owner itself, and "third party" means cookies developed by third parties other than the site owner.

Nature of Cookies

Cookies installed on this site

The cookies used on our website are grouped into the following categories.

Necessary

Necessary cookies are absolutely essential for the proper functioning of the website. Only cookies that provide the basic functionality and security features of the website are included in this category. These cookies do not store any personal information.

Not necessary

All cookies that may not be particularly necessary for the operation of the website and that are specifically used to collect personal data from users through analytics, ads, other embedded content are defined as unnecessary cookies. It is mandatory to obtain the user's consent before running these cookies on your website.

Analytics

Analytical cookies are used to understand how visitors interact with the website. These cookies help provide information on metrics such as number of visitors, bounce rate, traffic source, etc.

Performance

Performance cookies are used to understand and analyse key performance indicators of the website, which helps to provide a better user experience for visitors.

Advertisement

Advertising cookies are used to provide visitors with relevant advertisements and marketing campaigns. These cookies track visitors through the websites and collect information to deliver personalised advertisements.

The following list details the cookies used on our website.

Domain	Cookie	Description
google.com	1P_JAR (2 months)	These cookies are set via embedded YouTube videos. They collect anonymous statistical data, for example, about how often the video is displayed and what settings are used for playback. No confidential data is collected unless you log in to your Google Account. In such a case, your selections will be linked to your account, for example when you click "Like" on a video.

Cookie Management

You can manage your cookie preferences by clicking on the "Settings" button and enabling or disabling the cookie categories in the popup according to your preferences.

If you decide to change your preferences later during your browsing session, you can click on the "Privacy & Cookie Policy" tab on your screen.

This will display the consent notice again, allowing you to change your preferences or withdraw your consent completely. You can disable cookies on websites by downloading special software such as Ghostery for your browser and disabling the use of individual cookies.

Or you can activate the 'anonymous surfing' mode - this is a function that allows you to surf without leaving any trace of your surfing data in the browser.

This function only allows browsing data not to be retained in the browser. In addition, different browsers provide different methods for blocking and deleting cookies used by websites.

You can change your browser settings to block/delete cookies.
